

Alp Önder Güler

Alp Önder Güler graduated from TED Ankara College in 1983 and studied at METU Management School for his BA degree. In 1987, after graduating with High Honors from METU, he was accepted to Bilkent University to join the “MBA with Quantitative Techniques” program with a scholarship and teaching assistant role. He worked with Prof. Salih Neftci on implementing advanced econometric forecasting models during his work at Bilkent. With the accelerated penetration of computerization, he was attracted to NCR on a unique program to join a training in US headquarters. After NCR, he joined Digital Equipment Corp and later Microsoft, where he was granted the Bill Gates Special Achievement Award for expanding IT penetration for Small and Medium Businesses. In 2005 he joined Cisco as Country VP and added the networking stack to his experience portfolio. He led ATOS for two years as Country CEO and joined Vodafone to expand the enterprise sales and services business. In 2014 he joined Google to start the Cloud business, and since then, he has been actively involved in growing the business and eco-system in Turkey. Onder also enjoys being an angel investor and startup mentor.